

ANU COLLEGE OF ASIA AND THE PACIFIC

REGNET STRATEGIC PLAN 2021-25

Australian National University

The School of Regulation and Global Governance (RegNet) is a world-class academic centre renowned for its pioneering research and education on regulation and governance.

Purpose

To generate cutting-edge research and world-class educational offerings that actively respond to major regulatory and governance challenges of the 21st century.

Vision

To be a global leader in the study of regulation and governance, distinguished by an embrace of interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary approaches that harness our collective capabilities.

Research Creative Innovators

To anticipate the major regulatory and governance challenges of our time, contributing boundary-breaking research that informs effective action.

- 01 Maintain and advance RegNet's research excellence
- 02 Cultivate research focused on regulatory and governance challenges in Asia and the Pacific
- 03 Nurture collaborative projects in critically important and emerging areas of regulation and governance
- 04 Sustain Category 1 applications and successful outcomes
- 05 Increase Category 2-4 applications and successful outcomes
- 06 Maintain the number of quality publications in top journals and presses as well as publicly accessible outlets
- 07 Continue to deliver high quality research training for early career and higher degree by research scholars

Education Distinctive Opportunities

To deliver robust education offerings that cultivate critical skills by applying world-class research to real-world regulatory and governance challenges.

- 01 Maintain and enhance RegNet's student-centred approach to education
- 02 Promote RegNet's interdisciplinary HDR curriculum as a world-class program that cultivates critical thinkers capable of autonomous and collaborative research
- 03 Enhance the quality of education offerings, including modes of delivery that target researchers and relevant practitioners
- 04 Refine coursework degrees to balance conceptual and practical skills for different student groups
- 05 Promote different educational offerings in regulation and governance, assessing their viability in terms of impact and income generation

Engagement Collegial Collaborators

To actively connect with academia, civil society and government to inform future policy and regulatory practice.

- 01 Implement a research engagement to impact pathway plan
- 02 Increase public commentary on RegNet research
- 03 Identify and strengthen government, civic, university and industry networks
- 04 Refine the tracking of engagement and impact within the School
- 05 Develop targeted strategies for wider research dissemination
- 06 Identify engagement relationships that could foster research collaboration and funding

People A Supportive Community

To nurture a generous work environment that embraces intellectual openness and diversity.

- 01 Commit to a thriving interpersonal and intellectual atmosphere within the School
- 02 Revisit recruitment and retention practices to ensure greater workplace diversity
- 03 Create a holistic approach to supporting staff and students at different career stages
- 04 Continue to provide mentoring and upskilling opportunities for all staff
- 05 Develop strategies for supporting scholars in emerging areas of research
